

Cover the mixing bowl to avoid the formation of a crust on top and place out of the way of drafts to rise, where the temperature can not fall below 80 degrees F. or be much higher than 88 degrees F. Where the housewife has no thermometer, she should see that the dough in all the risings is kept moderately warm, but not up to blood heat.

Any water used in mixing the dough should be moderately warm, but by no means hot. This sponge, if kept at the proper temperature, should, after two hours, become quite light.

KNEADING AND BAKING

To this well-risen sponge, which now will be found to be quite soft, add the remainder of the flour, kneading until a smooth and elastic dough has been formed. The dough must be very stiff, since the boiled potato contains a large amount of water which causes the dough to soften as it rises.

Do not add water to the dough unless it is absolutely necessary to work in the flour.

Set the dough back to rise until it has trebled in volume, which will require another hour or two. Then divide the dough into four equal parts.

Mold the four portions into loaves and place in greased pans which have been slightly warmed. Set the loaves to rise and when they have doubled in volume, bake them in a good, steady heat for 45 minutes.

PARTISAN PREJUDICE HAS NO PLACE IN INTERNATIONAL AFFAIRS

By President Wilson

Let no man dare to be a marplot. Let no man bring partisan passion into these great thing (international affairs. Let men honestly debate the facts and courageously act upon them, and then will come that day when the world will say: "This America that we thought was full of a multitude of contrary ideas now speaks with great volume of the heart's accord, and that great heart of America has behind it the moral force of righteousness and the hope and the liberty of mankind." — At New York, January 27, 1916.
